WASHINGTON CITY.

The Impeachment Trial.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The Times' Washington [illegible]: Evans, the Fort Sill post trader, will [illegible] Monday night. If Evans' testimony can be [illegible] on Wednesday, there is a fair prospect that [illegible] be concluded this week and given to the [illegible] Upon conclusion of the testimony [illegible] will be made by two of the managers [illegible] by two of the counsel for Belknap. It is [illegible] Managers will be confronted within [illegible] hours. The Senate will not be likely to delay [illegible] any length of time, but will vote either [illegible].

Ho —ignation not yet Accepted.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Pratt's resignation has not [illegible] formally accepted notwithstanding, as is well known, the President requested through Secretary Morrill, it should be tendered; and strong influences are at work to induce the President to declare its acceptance. Those at work to secure the declaration believe that whatever differences may exist between the President and the commissioner can be amicably adjusted without any humiliation to the commissioner or any abandonment of the position taken by the President. The question will probably be settled by the end of this week.

Bristow and the Congressional Committee.

NEW YORK, July 17.—A dispatch from Washington says that Mr. Knott does not intend to recall Bristow to press him any further with questions about Cabinet matters, though he may call him on other points. Bristow's friends say he will not change his course toward the committee on account of the President's letter, and they add that this question of answering committees of Congress was formally discussed in the Cabinet, and the President and Cabinet agreed that no answer should be made touching Cabinet proceedings or conversations to any committee of Congress.

THE SIOUX WAR.

Dispatch from General Sheridan.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—General Sheridan has forwarded the following dispatch to General Sherman: I had already ordered General Merritt to join General Crook, but he will be delayed a few days at Lampating to intercept the Indians who have left Red Cloud agency. I would suggest to Crook to unite with Terry and attack and drive the Indians, but I am so far away that I will have to leave them as I have done.

News has been received here that many Indians are leaving Spotted Tail and Red Cloud agencies for the purpose of joining Sitting Bull, and that Col. Merritt, now at Port Laramie, has been directed by Sheridan to intercept them at once, without any failure.

Dispatch from General Crook.

CAMP ON GOOSE CREEK, Wyoming, July 12, } VIA FETTERMAN, July 17.

My last information from Red Cloud agency was that the Cheyennes had left there to reinforce the enemy in my front. As this takes away the disabling element from that section, I had availed myself of the tenderness of my permission and ordered eight companies of the Fifth Cavalry under Col. Merritt to join me at this point. The best information I can get from the front is that the Sioux have three fighting men to any one, although I have no doubt of my ability to whip them with my present force, the victory would be more decisive to me if I could wait and so have thought it better to defer an attack until I can get the Fifth here and then end the campaign with one crushing blow. The hostile Indians are according to my advices, camped on the Little Horn near the base of the mountains, and will probably remain there until my reinforcements come up.

A second dispatch was received from Gen. Terry this morning asking me to co operate. I will do so to the best of my ability.

(Signed), GEO. F. CROOK, Brig. Gen'l.

The Indian War.

The Times' Chicago telegram to night state that the Indians are moving on Medicine Bow station, on the Union Pacific railroad, about due south of Fetterman, supposed for the purpose of capturing or destroying supplies which have been stored there recently in great quantities by the government, there being 80,000 rounds of ammunition among other things.

No Agreement on Appropriation Bills Yet.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The committee of conference on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bills, met this morning, but adjourned without agreement. The indications for an adjustment of the deadlocks were, however, encouraging.

Troops Ordered to the Indian Country.

LEAVENWORTH, July 17.—Two artillery companies stationed at Fort Leavenworth, have been ordered to the Indian country, and will depart for the seat of action immediately upon the arrival of some companies of 10th U. S. Cavalry (colored) from Fort Sill, who have also been ordered to report to Gen. Terry. A part of the 4th U. S. Cavalry have been ordered to Fort Leaven worth to supply the place of the 5th Infantry, which departed last Wednesday for the Sioux country.

Military Monument for Custer.

BAY CITY, Mich., July 18.—The soldiers have instituted a movement to erect a Michigan monument to Custer, and called a meeting for Wednesday next. This is independent of the National Association organized at Monroe last week.

LONDON, July 17.—Reports from all the European capitals say Lord Derby's statement has made a very favorable impression.

Earthquake Shock in Austria.

VIENNA, July 17.—A severe shock of earthquake was felt last night, and several shocks were experienced this afternoon. Damage not reported.

Turkish War News.

LONDON, July 17.—The Standard's [illegible] special says the Turks are in Djelina and surrounded by the Servian army—their capture or surrender is considered only a question of time. The Servians are preparing for an immediate assault. The Standard has a special from Semlin dated Sunday, which says there is a rumor that Gen. Olympios Cumide of the Drina army is a prisoner. The headquarters of the Morava army are not at Vrynitza [illegible] cannot be longer connected than the regiments of [illegible] are recruited in Eastern Servia and continued to fight the Turks. The Standard's Semlin correspondent has interviewed the revolutionary committee, who have removed to Semlin from Belgherest. Its members state positively that the rising of all the Bulgarians is thoroughly arranged and will break out immediately after the first Servian victory. The Standard's telegram from Alexandria says 4,000 more troops sailed for Turkey Sunday. The Standard's Vienna special says [illegible] believed here that England will soon take the initiative for an armistice. The Turkish commander on the eastern frontier of Servia received unexpected orders on Saturday and withdrew to Turkish territory. The easy success of the Montenegrins excites surprise when compared with the hard fighting of the servians generally. It is reported that Lipnik and Metochija surrendered at the first assault. The Standard's Berlin dispatch says from a comparison of the Servian and Turkish accounts of operations near Widden, it seems certain that the Servians retreated after a most gallant resistance. The Standard's Vienna dispatch says the Turks have crossed the Timok at two places. Atrocities are feared at Belgrade in consequence of the government's reticence. Milan and Ristics are accused of treachery even by Prince Milan. Prince Milan has written to the Czar asking his intervention to secure that the mitigation of the brutalities practiced by the Turks. The Russian Ambulance Sanitary Corps is passing through Roumania. A force of 20,000 Turks leave Sofia Sunday to reinforce Nicsic. The Journal de St. Petersburgh denies that Prince Milan has asked Russia to intercede for an armistice.

The Times learns that the despatch telegraphed from Paris on the 14th inst., I had an interview with Prince Milan of Servia, on Friday to a similar effect with that of the Times. The Prince explained the tactics of General Tchernayeff, who is marching northward along the Eastern frontier toward Saitchar with eight battalions to attack the Turkish army from Widden which is not at Ishinar. General Tchernayeff holds Akapalanka and Gunsapatz. No Turks have passed the defile of Suri Bazar. The Prince says the co operation of Montenegrins is thorough and hearty. A special to the Daily News from Vienna says the Montenegrins took 1,000 prisoners on Saturday.

The Telegraph's Constantinople special says the servians were defeated at Lukovic in Rezuna losing 200 killed and 400 wounded; and also at Lisnic, where they lost 900, killed and wounded.

Official News from Turkey.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The Turkish minister received the following official dispatch from Constantinople, dated to day: Sabry Pasha attacked the servians yesterday. After an engagement lasting six hours, our soldiers captured with the bayonet the entrenchments occupied by the enemy, and defeated them completely. Large numbers were captured. In consequence of the movement of Suliman Pasha, the Servians abandoned their entrenchments at Bolina Glarzo and retired into Servia.

OTTAWA, July 17.—At the Reformed Episcopal council this evening, Dean Cridge, of British Columbia, was consecrated Bishop of the Pacific coast.

SLANG.

SALEM, July 11, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The June number of the Webfoot Magazine contains an article titled "Slang," which for peculiarity of doctrine, unqualified statements, pernicious teaching and brazen effrontery, it is well and truly remarkable.

"Indulgence in slang is not confined to any one class of society, but it may be heard in all." Now, if this be true, we, as an American freeborn, enlightened people, ought to be heartily ashamed of ourselves. Of course, a hundred years is a short time in which to acquire all the finer points of education and refinement; but while we envy our English and French neighbors their graces of speech and politeness, it is absolutely a crying shame for a man to put his pen to paper in defence of one of the most uncouth and vulgar habits of the American people. What is slang? Let us see. Webster defines it thus. Slang—n. low, vulgar, unauthorized language; a colloquial mode of expression. Zell defines it as follows: Slang—n. low, vulgar, inelegant language; a colloquial mode of expression peculiar to, or familiarly used by, certain classes of society; cant; as the slang of prize rings, of university students, of the turf, etc., and we may add, as our writer would have it, the "brief but eloquent appeals" of our street hoodlums. He says: "Journalists are found who harp on the terrible results arising from the occasional use of slang by the gentler sex, making their case out a fearful one. Away with such fanaticism! Old-fogyism is a term too tame to use in the case of those who are so extremely choice in their use of language." Well, if it be old-fogyism to discourage and reprehend the use of slang by our sisters and daughters, may God bless the country immediately by making that kind of old-fogyism universal.

Our modern writers should not misrepresent the people of our country. We are not a crowd of slangwhangers, such as our modern would have the world believe. 'Tis true, we have a class of hoodlums, male and female, who use slang and other inelegancies of speech, but to say that such vulgarisms can be found in all classes of our society is a gross error, and should be promptly and emphatically denounced. Our modern says slang may not is, or well, but it sounds well. That is a pertinent truth. Its use, by persons who make any pretensions to refinement, scours every vestige of elegance out of them, in the estimation of those who are refined, for it is a well known fact that only the off scour-ings of American society practice it. "Many of the slang expressions of to-day contain a mint of common sense, if rightly understood." What can be more edifying! Is there a particle of common sense in such vocal variations as "Hire a hall," "pull down your vest," "I can't see it," "you bet your boots," "not much," "kick the bucket," "don't get on your ear," and the like? But our modern says—and he is no old fogy—they must be "rightly understood." Where does he find these low-flung vulgarisms rightly understood? Among the hoodlums of Five Points and Barbary Coast. There they are rightly understood and used to express sentiments of minds uneducated and steeped in all the unutterable vices of a class of depraved and irredeemable outcasts. It is among this class these "eloquent appeals" find birth, and from them are copied by the obtuse and unrefined of other classes.

The editor of the Webfoot Magazine speaks of girls and society in a few beautiful sentences, among which are the following: "Woman, in her purity, her beauty, her exquisite modesty and bewitching tenderness, is fascinating. She is ennobling, elevating, and she is inspiring. God eminently intended her to be so. He clothed her with His choicest raiment, bestowed upon her His grandest virtues, and gave her His most eloquent language."

How true! What a delightful picture! And then to think she will so degrade these precious gifts, make herself so utterly uncouth and disgusting to all the cardinal virtues of refinement, modesty and loveliness as to descend to barbarous slang, is fearful to contemplate. Is it not equally discouraging to know that an American, a son, a brother, a husband, a father, will use his pen to promote and defend such an abominable and outrageous abuse?

SMILES.

WHEN TILDEN DESERTED TWEED.

The facts of history contradict Mr. Tilden as to the time when he saw fit to desert the fortunes of his quondam friends. He acted as the mere tool of Tweed at the Rochester convention in 1870; he refused to participate in the public movement against the ring in the spring of 1871; he appears beside Judge Cardozo, Andrew J. Garvey and Tom Fields as a member of the committee of arrangements of the eighty-third celebration of the Tammany society on July 4, 1871. It was in July, 1871, that the Times published its extracts from the controller's books and completed the ruin of that colossal structure of fraud, which its persistent assaults during the preceding year had already undermined. Yet it was nearly two months after Tweed and his allies had been proved to be the boldest and most successful thieves of modern times that Mr. Tilden found courage to come out publicly against them. Nevertheless he has the monstrous impudence to declare in his biography that, "As always happens to those who battle for the right, Providence came to his aid." The thieves fell out and one of their number betrayed them. A clerk in the controllers office copied a series of entries afterward known as "secret accounts" and handed them to the press for publication." As Mr. Tilden was at that time on the eve of the civil Providence would have obviously helped the thieves in Tweed's band and he only began to "battle for the right" after its triumph had been assured. So simple appears as a writhing and desperate rogue stoops to trying to steal the credit for an act with which he had nothing whatever to do. Mr. Tilden knows very well that the thieves did not fall out till they had been confronted with evidences of their guilt, which were certainly not obtained from "one of their number." He is equally well aware that the claim made in his biography about his planting himself on the platforms of the elders, on the moral sense and forces of the Democracy," etc., is both hypocritical cant and transparent falsehood. Yet he sends it through the country to do duty as political history, and endeavors to make people forget how much of an impostor he has been in the past by shaming that he means to push his fortunes in the present by humbug and false pretenses. N. Y. Times.

Another Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—A. J. DeLigne, a Frenchman who was shot last Thursday morning in a boarding house at Alameda, died last Saturday afternoon. Deceased was a Central Market butcher in this city. The man who fired the fatal shot was Alfred Janin, nicknamed Cricket, also of this city, and who followed the occupation of a jewelry broker. The evidence at the inquest showed that deLigne first struck Janin, and the jury found a verdict in accordance with the facts, without making a charge of murder. Family troubles were at the bottom of the difficulty.

Treasure Stolen.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—Among the passengers by the steamer Arcon, which arrived from the southern coast yesterday, were Judge Rush and wife, of Prescott, Arizona. The Judge had, in a small carpet-sack, gold bars to the value of $5,300, placed in his charge by a Spanish merchant of Wickenburg, named Peralta, for deposit here. The officers of the steamer collected tickets about 4 o'clock P. M. on Saturday. Mrs. Rush, who was in her berth, sea-sick, taking their tickets from her satchel, which contained the bars. At 1 A. M. on Sunday, the ship anchored off Black Point, when Judge Rush discovered that the satchel with its contents was missing. He notified the captain of the steamer, and, taking a boat, landed and informed the police authorities. Captain Baker, of the harbor police, with one officer, boarded the ship and made search, without effect, and the steamer hauled into the wharf and landed her passengers. No trace has been found of the missing treasure contained in the satchel, besides drafts to a considerable amount, and private papers of value. A considerable disposition was shown in some quarters to criticise the action of the harbor police and the commander of the steamer in allowing any one to leave the steamer before finding the stolen goods; while others censure the loser, for not placing his valuables in the hands of the purser for safe keeping, and hint at a possibility of the robbery being more apparent than real.

Nearly a Fatal Accident at a Mill.

LOS GATOS, July 17.—An accident occurred at the Los Gatos flour mills at 1:15 P. M., today. Mr. Black, the head miller, having been relieved by Mr. Mason, the 2d, when the belt ran off the driving machinery on to two runs of 4½ feet stones. Mason ran to shut off the water. Arthur Murphy, misunderstanding Mason, ran to one of the stones and commenced raising it. The noise prevented him hearing Mason, when all the power of both runs and machinery was put on one stone, which ran the belt of that and put the whole power on the stone which Murphy had raised; thus concentrating almost instantly about 70 horse power on one run of stone. In an instant it burst, scattering the fragments over the mill, some of which struck Murphy, hurling him some ten feet. He is badly bruised, but not thought fatally injured. Mason was thrown violently to the floor, but was uninjured.

NEVADA.

Another Bonanza Discovered.

ELKO, July 17.—Parties here yesterday, just in from Cornucopia, confirm the report of the richest strike yet made in that district. The vein, which is three feet thick, has been struck about 350 feet from the surface, showing horn silver in a mass. The new location is known as Grand Prize. It is raising much excitement among miners and others in this place and it is the general opinion that a bonanza has been struck.

SILVER SOCIETY.

On the whole, Virginia is rather a jolly place to live in for one whose soul is not cast in the inflexible mould of respectability. Whatever vice there is—and God knows it has its share—is open and above board. The Comstocker is an honest fellow. He doesn't, as a general thing, like a plug hat, or gloves, or cane. He is given to shoving his slouch hat on the back of his head, smoking a cigar at an acute angle, thrusting his hands in his pockets, leaning against an awning post in the cool of the evening and talking in a loud voice. He chuckles over broad stories and frequents saloons. He puts a five on the ace to take the tray without shame, and is apt to double his stakes if he loses—but he doesn't growl. He makes money and spends it in the way that pleases him most. It may not always be a very pure or intellectual way, but it suits him and it is his own business. He builds a nice house for his wife, if he has one, and spends a good deal of his time and money down town. Stocks are his idol, and he calls the turn often enough not to discourage him in his worship. He takes a trip to the Bay, or goes East, now and again, but is always glad to get back to Virginia. Other places are too straight-laced for him, and he is inclined to look upon conventionality as a bore and an unreasonable restraint. Lots of good fellows, plenty of money, no social stain attaching to a rather frequent jamboree, and living in a place where he knows everybody and everybody knows him—these are the things the Comstocker likes, and his head is pretty level.

The Washington Capital contains the following about the Pittsburgh Leader:

"The Sunday Leader is the only stable Sunday paper in Pittsburgh. It is a large affair, and has a genuine circulation of 25,000. But the religious element is opposed to a Sunday journal, and it affords fine opportunity for pulpit oratory. The principle of the religionists here is Hebraical; it objects, I suppose, to setting up type and laboring on the Sabbath (Saturday), for the warmest opponents of the Sunday edition are among the morning dailies, who do all their Monday work on Sunday inconsistency, then, is a paste diamond!

"The founder of the Sunday Leader was Mr. Pittock, well known in Washington, and universally here. He began life young. At twelve years of age he had a contract for delivering all the New York dailies that arrived in Pittsburgh; combined that with the stationery business, and when a mere boy was scooping in an income of forty or fifty dollars per week. He continued, and has been marvelously successful.

Pittock has a peculiar custom of giving a grand New Year's blow-out to all the newsboys and bootblacks in Pittsburg. It is a stupendous job. The boys starve themselves for a couple of days before the occasion, to do justice to the programme, and it is ascertained that during Christmas week every little gamin in town suddenly adopts one or other of the professions. They are fearful eaters. The proportion was weighed last year, and it was shown that four pounds was mastricated on an average by each young one."

THAT SWAMP LAND MATTER AGAIN.

LINKVILLE, June 26, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

As my former letter, published in your paper of May 20th, has been so denounced as false and malicious, both by Mr. Cranston, in the columns of your paper, and in the Jacksonville Times of the 2d inst., I presume space will be afforded me to establish the charges made and place in refutation some regards, letters and giving my authority for the charges made in my former article.

Taking up the letter of Mr. Cranston, and his denials in the order they were made, I find his first denial is, that he is not now and never was an applicant to purchase a single acre of swamp land in the Klamath Lake basin. The statement is an evasion of the truth and a quibble, worthy only of a pettyfogger. In the governor's report to the legislature of 1872, Mr. S. B. Cranston is mentioned as a filer on something over 2,000 acres; and the summer of that year Mr. Cranston came out here, for the first time, to look at his swamp land at Buck Lake, where he said his filings were located. Buck Lake is the source of Williams creek that empties into the Klamath river about 17 miles from this place, and is generally considered to be in this basin.

In a contest before the State board, Mr. Fay obtained possession of that piece of swamp. So I have understood; but at what time Mr. Cranston's right to it was annulled I cannot say. Since that time Mr. Cranston has been on the lookout for another piece of wet land, and last year he became a joint filer with H. W. Thatcher upon a body of land situated on one branch of Lost river, also in this basin, and considered so to be by Mr. Thatcher. Some time during the month of June, 1875, two parties named respectively —— Hall and Simpson Wilson filed their declaratory statements for homesteads upon portions of the land so claimed by Messrs. Cranston and Thatcher, paid the fees and received receipts therefor. Some days afterward there was received at the land office instructions to withhold from further disposition all lands claimed by the State of Oregon as swamp and overflowed, which had not been disposed of under pre-emption or homestead laws, until the matter was definitely adjusted, the instructions to take effect upon their receipt. As Mr. Cranston had unwittingly, if not unwillingly, allowed the parties above named to file their claims prior to the receipt of this order, they were not included in the lands so withheld; but being interested in their being so withheld, the register erased his name from the retained filings, demanded the return of the fees from the receiver, and tried to intimidate the filers into giving up their receipts. The papers went to Washington without the register's signature, and the legality of the claims were fully sustained by the commissioner. Of course, Mr. Cranston would deny his purpose in moving to this country, but as actions are better indications of intention or purpose than words, when the two contradict each other, he will have to rest under the imputation, unless he can clear himself from the suspicion his own words and acts have placed him under in this community.

In answer to his denial that the lands were reported, as stated in my former letter, I will give the following transcript from the report of the surveys of Howard and Turner upon the named townships whereon most of the contested lands are situated:

DESCRIPTION OF LANDS RETURNED BY THE U. S. DEPUTY SURVEYOR IN TOWNSHIP 40 SOUTH, RANGE 8 EAST.

"This land, included in our survey in this township, is rich bottom land, bearing very heavy blue-joint meadow and wire or tule grass. Several hundred tons of hay have been made in the township within the lines of the present survey the present season. There are eight settlers located within the limits of the so-called swamp lands in this township who have made permanent improvements, and opened a road several miles in length from the center to the northeast part of the township. The area of the present survey embraces the most valuable and desirable lands in the whole township."

Compare the above with the statement of Mr. Cranston, who, as Register, had the returns almost constantly before him.

In regard to his denial of having refused pre-emption filings upon lands claimed by the State as "swamp," and the statement that such refusal of filings, either homestead or pre-emption, was in pursuance of instructions from the interior department, I merely refer to the decision in the two homestead entries noted above and the following extract of a letter from the commissioner of the general land office, in relation to his refusal of a pre-emption filing:

Under date, from Commissioner General Land Office, Oct. 30, 1875, wherein Daniel Gordon, a pre-emption claimant, appealed from the decision of the Register in refusing to receive said Gordon's pre-emption filing, the Commissioner says: "You (the Register, S. B. Cranston) will receive the pre-emption filing of said Gordon, noting thereon the date it was improperly refused by you."

In the surveyor's return, referring to that portion of Langell's valley, claimed as swamp and overflowed, the register's statement contains just enough truth to save it from condemnation as a falsehood. The returns, instead of saying, "subject to annual overflow," as Cranston states, say in reference to the lower portions of Township 41 South, Range 13 East, "They are rich bottom prairie lands, subject to overflow during spring freshets." In reference to sections 5, 6, 7 and 18, Township 41 South, Range 14 East, "they are rich prairie lands, mainly subject to annual overflow, and form a part of Langell's valley." These lands are now occupied by settlers who have resided there from two seven years, and who have neither been drowned or grown web-footed.

In answer to the charge that he had locked up patents sent there to pre-emption claimants, and refused to deliver them to the patentees, he says he put the patents under lock and key, as it was his duty to do, but that the charge that he ever refused to deliver them, was such a foolish falsehood that it was not worthy of notice. Will he explain the difference between refusing, when requested by the patentee, and in refusing in violation of the duties of his office, which requires him to notify patentees of the receipt of their patents? Or, will he explain why he withheld the knowledge of the receipt of said patents from the Receiver, who was equally entitled to their custody?—and what meant the following letter sent to the Commissioner, General Land Office:

"Being fully satisfied that the State of Oregon is determined to prosecute her claims to the swamp lands, even through the courts, if necessary, I deem it for the best interests of the settlers that the land which the State claims as swamp and overflowed, be withheld from disposition under the homestead and pre-emption laws until the claims of the State are adjusted. Any other policy in my judgment, will be injurious to the country and financial ruin to the settlers."

"It will also be observed that the swamp land embraced in these patents were selected by the State and lists thereof filed in this office long before the filing of declaratory statements, or making homestead entries of any of said patentees, and that no notice of their claims has been given to the State of Oregon, or opportunity offered to her in this office to establish the validity of her claims." Under these circumstances, it seems to me that good faith on the part of the general government toward the State requires that until her claim is adjusted, the land she claims should remain undisposed of by patent.

In conclusion I respectfully suggest that it will be better for all concerned that the patents referred to now remaining in this office be withheld from delivery until the State claim to the land in question is definitely adjusted. Awaiting your instructions in the premises, I remain, etc.,

S. B. CRANSTON.

Will Mr. Cranston explain why he violated the rules of the office in failing to place a copy of the above letter in the letter book, unless it was to prevent the knowledge of the receipt of the patents from becoming known to the Receiver? and the fact of his having assumed the role of solicitor and attorney on the part of the State from being made public?

Following is the answer to the above letter from the commissioner, in which he convicts Mr. C. of another little evasion or perversion of the truth. Said letter, was published without comment in the Oregon Sentinel of October 9, 1875.

SWAMP LANDS,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9, 1875.

Register and Receiver, Linkville, Oregon—Gentlemen: I have received the Register's letter of the 15th of August last, in which he says, "enclosed herewith please find a list of patents received at this office issued to homestead claimants for lands claimed by the State of Oregon as swamp and overflowed." The list also embraces a brief statement in each case of the facts as they appear from the files and records

MR TILDEN'S RAILROAD TRANSACTIONS.

It is well known that Mr Tilden has been many years largely engaged in the great affairs of railroads and it may perhaps not be amiss to enquire what his management has been One of the roads which he held a large share in managing was the Galena and Chicago road which is stated to have been one of the best paying roads in the country It stock was held by persons who regarded it as a permanent investment, and who did not buy it on time or in any other way, for speculative purposes Much of it was held by women and much of it by trustees of the property of minors who sought a safe investment for the money of their wards It is not stated whether Mr Tilden held any considerable amount of this stock shortly after Mr Tilden began to influence the management of this road, he proposed to consolidate it with the Chicago and Northwestern road, which is said to have been an almost bankrupt concern, the stock of which had been watered and which was bought and sold by those who buy stock on time and expect to pay or receive only the "differences" between the rate at which it stood on the day of purchase and the rate on the day of delivery It is not stated either whether Mr Tilden held any considerable amount of this stock However, by the exercise of that skill and adroitness which characterize all his acts, Mr Tilden succeeded in securing votes enough to effect the consolidation The two roads—one prosperous and profitable, the support of widows and orphans and the depository of trust funds—the other unprovished and worthless, the convenient means whereby reckless speculators sought to gratify their passion for questionable transactions—these two roads were consolidated, and immediately the natural result followed. The holders of Galena and Chicago stock were ruined by the fall in the value of their property, and the lucky speculators who happened to have Chicago and Northwestern found there were "millions in it" Mr. Tilden is a man of large means, possessing property valued at three or four millions His friends say that he acquired the most of this by railroad transactions in the West. It would be interesting to know whether the above mentioned is one of the "transactions," and if so, how it could have been profitable if he had not been a holder of Chicago and Northwestern stock. And if he was a holder of that stock, it would be exceedingly interesting to know how the transaction could be justified by the man whom the people of this country regard, so he himself says, as the representative of purity and reform.

But since it may be that none of Mr. Tilden's wealth was derived from this source, there is another railroad transaction in the West with which Mr. Tilden was connected, of which an exchange speaks as follows: "The St. Louis, Alton and Terre Haute road was reorganized and a committee appointed, Mr Tilden being one, to purchase the various forms of indebtedness under which the road labored, and to pay for them in new issues of stock, &c. When this had been done, it was found that some three hundred thousand dollars of stock in excess of the amount authorized, had been issued The committee were called upon to account for this extra issue, and to tell where the extra stock was They referred the inquirers to Mr Tilden, who went away to Europe about this time, and he has never answered the question since, always putting off the inquirers to some future day, which has not yet come" So that it is hardly fair to say whether or not any of Mr Tilden's millions came from this railroad transaction in the West.

These are the principal railroad transactions in the West with which Mr Tilden has been connected There were others, and since Mr Tilden made his money by railroad transactions in the West, it becomes important to know whether the above mentioned were the profitable ones, or the others

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM AND HAYES —WHAT MANNER OF MAN HE IS

The Nation of June 29 contains a well considered article on the first steps necessary to a reform of the civil service One of these is "to forbid all political activity on the part of office holders." "This is necessary," says the writer, "both to improve the service and wrest from the politicians the power of thwarting the will of the people" This is an important step in the right direction, and the remedy suggested for a breach of this prohibition is simple and effective—"Beyond the simple act of voting, any connection with politics, the working of politics should be punished by dismissal"

The article was written before the appearance of Hayes' letter of acceptance, and therefore concludes that as in the matter of changes nothing can be expected from the office holding and office seeking conventions, we must await specific promises from the candidates"

Upon this head the article cites the following extract from a private letter received from a friend of Mr Hayes, in whose judgment the Nation expresses "great confidence"

It is the nearest the picture of a model man for the Presidency we remember to have seen and what is better, Hayes' letter of acceptance since made public goes far to prove the picture a perfect likeness

"I have known Hayes for more than twenty years I believe I know all about his work and his way of following at his opinions and how he came by them, and where they lead him As everybody criticises his friends I have made it a matter of his knowledge and abilities

"In the next place he is not a self-made man that was regularly educated and has a brush with politics in this country He never had to go over any objection to lecturing, and has enjoyed up his notion of human nature and the rest of political economy by observing it cups from the windows of a rail car like Lincoln He believes in history and experience and does not, like Morton, hold that old precedents are unable to meet countries like ours in many and for more than thirty years has watched public affairs about as carefully as an intelligent as the men who were carrying them on In a word he believes in men and in principles as the people mean by new to imply that a man lacks familiarity with the subject To illustrate what I mean he knows every bit as much about our true politics (not about running a party) as Mr Blaine or Mr Morton and his opinion is worth twice as much as that of either of them As to one of them, I think I put it very mildly I should have supported Mr. Bristow most cordially, but, knowing both men well, I have to say that Hayes is in every respect his equal He is certainly Bristow's equal intellectually and has much larger knowledge and more experience

He is not a magnetic man; he is not audacious he is not a leader he does not impress one as a great force and all that But when he has a duty to perform he first proceeds to throw aside all pretense and with a peculiar singleness and simplicity sees just what the matter is After that the devil can't scare him I never knew a man who listened with a franker willingness to learn and I have known very few men who were so sure to end with an opinion of their own which nothing could shake I observe that the little people of the Herald and World speak of him as a colorless candidate Well his color is not loud but what they actually mean is nonsense They had better encounter him sometime when he has a duty to perform and try to turn him aside and then tell us whether he has color I have seen him tried and noticed that his color was a good deal like steel

Undoubtedly he is a party man It would take much more to drive him from the Republican party than would suffice Schurz for he holds that the party is something, also than its leaders and that it can learn But my private talks with him make me feel sure that he is not in the least degree a partisan He is loyal to the Republican party simply because he really believes it means something, not because it is his party

I need say nothing about his honesty you've seen that mentioned in every paper that names him though perhaps I might just as well add that he is just absolute integrity My main purpose was to speak of his capabilities since that must be the chief point of curiosity just now For whatever it is worth my clear conviction is that he is a very able man very thoroughly informed of a good deal of culture of rare soundness of judgment and of a courageous, high character"

According to the monthly report of the Department of Agriculture for May and June only two States are credited with a larger product of wheat per capita than Oregon Minnesota raises 4 29 bushels, California 29 76 bushels and Oregon 25 75 bushels for each inhabitant. The smallest product per capita is that of Rhode Island which is only 003 of a bushel for each inhabitant The largest gross yield is that of Illinois, amounting to 30,128,405 bushels, and the smallest that of Rhode Island, 784 bushels Oregon's yield is set down at 2 380 746 bushels In the estimate of the yield of wheat per acre Oregon is put in the highest class, being surpassed only by Nevada. It is surprising that Rhode Island is also included in this class. The yield per acre is set down at from 15 2 to 20.9 bushels per acre California is included in the third class, averaging from 13 to 13 7 bushels per acre and Illinois in the fifth class, averaging 11 4 to 11 8 bushels per acre.

It should not be forgotten by the friends of an honest kind of money that, supposing Mr Tilden should be elected President and Mr Hendricks Vice President, only one feeble life would stand between the country and a President who holds the most heretical financial doctrines Should Mr. Tilden die, Mr Hendricks would become President, the soft money heresy would prevail and ruin would befall the country. It is not safe to take the risk when it can be avoided by voting for better men who are both sound and reliable.

Efforts are being made to induce the President to decline to accept Commissioner Pratt's resignation and to arrange the misunderstanding between them so that the Commissioner may be able to retain his place It will be remembered that Mr Pratt resigned in consequence of an intimation from the President that he wished him to do so.

For the treatment of all Diseases of the Blood and Urinary Organs Female Complaints, Heart Disease etc all Diseases of the Brain, Epilepsy, Paralysis Dizziness of Sight etc., Contagious and Skin Diseases Loss of Power, Nervous and Physical Debility Spermatorrhœa, Seminal Weakness and all diseases arising from the indulgence of early youth Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Syphilis Loss of Hair Sore Throat, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism and Gout.

Having for a number of years made the above maladies the subject of his special study, and moreover by long and careful practice modified the treatment used and recommended by such eminent men as Doctors Ricord Lallemand, Yardeau Videl, Wilson and others, as applied by them in cold and humid climates, so as to exactly suit the altered state of the constitution of persons who have been acclimatised in tropical and semi tropical countries feels perfect confidence in undertaking the permanent and effectual cure of any of the above diseases of however long standing or inveterate they may be, with a certainty if not only eradicating the disease but concurrently restoring the entire constitution to perfect health and vigor The grand peculiarity of

Treatment consists in the most spurious rejection of all those deleterious mineral drugs which while they momentarily remove the symptoms poison the blood and permanently fix the diseases in the constitution which form the sole panacea of that unscrupulous horde of empirical charlatans who fleece their unsuspecting but too confiding dupes, and for their sordid gold require them with shattered constitutions and immedicable existence and the prospect of an undigested and early grave

BRIEF NOTES.

Plums are in the market

The photograph man has departed

A bright and glorious day was yesterday

The water works are again in full operation

Steamer due from San Francisco this evening

Boating was liberally indulged in last evening

A large Eastern letter and paper mail last night

A street is being widened and otherwise improved

Considerable quantity of hay is arriving from the country

Gift entertainment at New Market Theater to morrow evening

The excursionists may be expected back about 11 30 o'clock

Noon day prayer meetings are continued at the Y M C A rooms

All the water has been pumped out of Capt R R Thompson's yard,

The boiler for the O S N Co a new steam boat is almost completed

Quite a number gone and going to the summer resorts by the seaside

Gymnastics in the gymnasium room, Turn Halle building, this evening.

These be vacation days and the boys and girls are correspondingly happy

The late flood has killed hundreds of beautiful ornamental trees about the city

The temporary roadway leading from First street to the O S S Co's dock has been removed

No 4's steamer was engaged yesterday in pumping out the cellar at the corner of First and Pine streets

The excursionists will not a plentiful supply of the OREGONIAN in the hands of train boy this morning

Only two weeks more permitted those desiring the WEEKLY OREGONIAN five months for one dollar. Subscribe at once

He hadn't room enough so he painted it Groceries and Pr for an abreviation of provisions—vide sign on Oak street

Mr John Collins, of East Portland, has presented the office a splendid assortment of currants, including several varieties

The subsistence store room, located for a short time in Masonic Hall building, will be removed to old quarters this week

Since the recedence of the high water the streets and sidewalks in the lower portion of the city are in a deplorable condition

The funeral of the late Samuel Sherlock, which took place yesterday evening from Trinity church was largely attended. The Masons attended in regalia

The building now occupied by Ainsley & Hegle and W Friedlander will be removed this week The parties above referred to will give notice to morrow of their future intentions.

Gone from our gaze the sporting gambler and others who came to the Centennial to make an extra piece from the unsophisticated It didn't pan out as well as expected

The departure of a print to Albany was a source of relief to Maucot, who says that no sent individual can yet away with more soup than any three men Wonder what the Albany folks have to say now

A large band of sheep gave a number of persons employment at the Stark street ferry last evening Charley Zeigler got a fat one and held it as an inducement for others to follow and besides saved one from drowning

As our regular joined the excursionists the duty of localizing devolved upon the junior local who does not profess to be up in the business. If there is anything overlooked, we will lay it to the absent one who ought to know better than to take a breathing spell

Richardson, as we passed on Saturday was offering two canaries at auction He said they were still fed and that two pieces of music would be thrown in to the purchaser Two bits for the pair was the first bid and we did not want to hear what A B had to say subsequently

THE YEAR WITHOUT A SUMMER.

The most curious weather, of which we have any record was that of the year 1816 There are but few persons now living who recollect it but European and American diaries represent it as being phenomenal in almost every particular In New England that year went by the name of eighteen hundred and starve to death The winter was very cold in Europe and comparatively mild in this country but the following summer was the coldest ever known in the United States

Ice in June was small so as to render ices almost needless in parlors December previous was very cold

February was bitterly cold with exception of a few days it was mild like its predecessor

March was cold and boisterous during the first part of it the remainder was mild April was fearful for the Ohio and Kentucky rivers caused great loss of property

April began warm but grew colder and it snowed and cold rain snow or ice with a temperature more like winter than spring

May was more remarkable for frosts than winter Buds and flowers were frozen no forest half an inch thick corn was killed and the fields were again and again planted until deemed too late

June was the coldest ever known in this latitude Frost ice and snow were common All vegetation growing green was killed Fruit was nearly all destroyed Snow fell to the depth of ten inches in Vermont seven in Maine and three in Central New York and Massachusetts Considerable damage was done at New Orleans in consequence of the rapid rise in the river the suburbs were covered with water and the roads were only passable in boats

July was accompanied by frost and ice On the 5th ice was formed to the thickness of common window glass throughout New England New York and some parts of Pennsylvania Indian corn was nearly all destroyed some favorably situated fields escaped This was true of some of the hill farms of Massachusetts

August was more cheerless, if possible than the summer months already passed Ice was formed half an inch thick Indian corn was so frozen that the greater part was cut down and dried for fodder Almost every green thing was destroyed both in this country and in Europe Papers received from England state that it would be remembered by the present generation that the year 1816 was a year in which there was no summer Very little corn ripened in New England and the Middle States Farmers supplied themselves from the corn produced in 1815 for the seed of the spring of 1817 It sold at from $4 to $5 per bushel

September furnished about two weeks of the mildest weather of the season Soon after the middle it became very cold and frosty and ice was formed a quarter of an inch thick

October produced more than its share of cold weather—frost snow and ice particularly

November was very cold and blustering Enough snow fell to make good sleighing

December was quite mild and comfortable

The above is a brief summary of the cold summer of 1816 as it was called in order to distinguish it from the cold season The winter was mild Frost and ice were common every month of the year The sun's rays seemed to be destitute of heat through the summer all nature seemed to be clad in a sable hue and man exhibited no little anxiety concerning the future of his life

The average wholesale price of flour during that year was $13 per barrel The average price of wheat in England was 97 shillings per quarter

HOW WORTH MAKES THE WOMAN

Very many ladies of this city send regularly to the great man dressmaker Worth in Paris, for their dresses both summer and winter Do not for a moment suppose all these women have seen Worth The greater proportion send a photograph to him with a description of the complexion the color of the hair eyes, etc It is not an infrequent occurrence to have the photograph returned by the owner with regrets at being unable 'to compose a toilet for Madame' A lady of high fashion in this city relates how she went to Worth on one occasion to have a number of dresses made He asked her to walk across the room It was a medium sized apartment When she was about half across he called to her from the sofa where he was sitting, 'Madame, that is enough I cannot invent a dress for you your figure does not please me Good morning Madame A mother and daughter in this city, charming women but newly rich and over anxious about dress wear the most exquisite toilets of Worth's composition, which are entirely unique They have never been to Paris or waddled through the Tuileries" yet Worth has seen them—that is he has their life sized pictures he admires them, and sends them poetical and ravishing dresses

CHIEF SENT Johnson the officer says you were drunk and that you haven't drawn a sober breath for a week How is that, Johnson?"

Yer Honor said Johnson as he dropped one arm over the rail and leaned back heavily on the policeman who supported him by the shoulder, Yer Honor it is true I've been drunk for a week as you say and haven't got a word to say in defend myself I've been in this ere court I guess a hundred times before an every time I've asked Yer Honor to let me off light but this time I don't have no fear Yer can send me up for ten days or ten years it's all one now"

As he spoke he brushed away a tear with his hat, and when he paused he coughed a dry racking cough and drew his tattered coat closer about his throat

When I went up before he continued I always counted the days an' the hours till I'd come off This time I'll count the blocks to the Potter's field I'm most gone Judge

He paused again, and looked down upon his almost shoeless feet

When I was a little country boy my mother used to say to me 'Charlie if you want to be a man never touch liquor' and I'd answer No, mother, I never will If I'd kept that promise you an' me wouldn't have been so well acquainted Judge If I could only be a boy again for half a day if I could go into the school house just once more and see the boys and girls as I used to see them in the old days, I could be right down there and the happy But it's too late Send me up Judge Make it ten days or make it for life It don't make no difference Old way would be as short as the other All I ask now is to be alone I've been in crowded tenements for years If I can be alone for a little while before I go I'll die contented"

THOUGHT.

BY MRS. W. H. WETMORE.

We see it, feel it, know its power
Its voice has long been heard
Oppression cannot make it cower,
It breathe the mighty sword

It gleams on the pearly tear
Which dims the sparkling eye,
We hear it in the school boy's shout
His loud laugh ringing high.

It flashes in the statesman's speech
As truth and right together blend;
And as he writes those burning words,
'Tis Thought, that guides his pen

Our history's page is written o'er
With many a daring deed,
Thought brought Columbus to our shore,
And Thought our nation freed.

And Thought has broke the chains which bound
The skepsic to the stake,
And quenched the fires once built around
Many a so called heretic

And Thought will break the tyrant's rod,
Enslaved it will not be;
'Twill give humanity one God
And set the nation free.

THE OLD FRIENDS.

Where are they scattered now,
The old, old friends?
One made her dwelling where the maples glow,
And mighty streams through solemn forests flow,
But never from the pine crowned land of snow
A message sends.

Some meet me oft amid
Life's common ways
And then perchance a word or smile declares
That warm hearts throb beneath their load of cares,
For love grows on, like wheat among the tares,
Till harvest days.

But some are fall'n asleep
The words are sweet
Oh, friends at rest beneath the blessed sod.
My feet still tread the weary road ye trod
Ere yet your loving souls went back to God
When shall we meet?

Oh, thou divinest Friend,
When shall it be
That I may know them in their garments white?
And see them with a new and clearer sight,
Mine old familiar friends—made fair and bright,
Like unto Thee!—Sarah Doudney.

HOW THE BRYANT VASE WAS MANUFACTURED.—The flat, solid piece of silver was all that the workmen had to begin with; and this plate, first with wooden mallets and then upon the arm of an anvil with hammers, was beaten into the form of a bowl, not without great care and long labor. Then began the nicest and most difficult part of the task—working out from the surface by the repousse process the flowers and projecting portions of the design according to the model in wax, which had already been made of the whole. What are called formative processes in all metal-working may be classed under five heads—casting, hammering, turning, chasing, and cutting away by erasive tools. All these methods to a certain extent have been employed in this vase; but the chief method has been that of beating cold, or the repousse system, of which Cellini was such a master, and of which the greatest metal sculptor of the present day, Monsieur Ladeuil, has reproduced with such effect as to make it the part alike of wisdom and modesty for other artists to follow it, as the makers of this vase have done. The repousse style begins its task by working the surface from within outward by means of snarling-irons, which have two horns very much like those of an anvil, and, like an anvil, they rest upon a block. One of these horns is made to touch the proper point on the inner surface of the vase, and the blow is given not directly upon this horn, but upon that opposite, which, when struck with skill, sends its vibrations to the other horn, which is in contact with the metal. By these vibrations the surface is raised to the due elevation so gradually and yet so vigorously as to secure the result without breaking or weakening the metal. When the bowl is thus shaped from within to the requisite form for the intended projections, it is filled with a composition of pitch and other ingredients, and then the workman changes his course, and begins his more difficult task of working the projecting surface into due form from the outside. In this way all this exquisite flower-work was produced, and every blossom and leaf, every ear of corn lily and primrose, was wrought by the eye and hand of the artist, and each thing bears the mark of his mind and his touch. The work requires generally several repetitions of the process, and the bowl is emptied and filled again. The medallions were made in the same way, instead of being cast from the wax, which is much the easiest, but does not leave the same fine lines and vital expression. In some parts of the work, as in the handles, whose form and figures did not allow repousse work, casting was resorted to, the designs being modeled in wax from studies of natural objects.—Dr. Samuel Osgood, in Harper's for July.

The week opens with a good deal of life in business matters, and indications point to an increased volume of transactions over any week for a month past. In the matter of remittances from the interior, there is still some complaint made, but these are much fewer than were heard a month ago, and it is confidently expected that the income from the approaching harvest will render the money market quite easy. If not flush, late in the fall. At this time, the financial status is one of extreme quietness and uniform steadiness. As far as rates are concerned, there is no special change, either at the city banks or on the outside. Offers of loans are made with rather more indifference on the part of capitalists, without much, if any, disposition to harden the terms which have ruled for some time past. First class paper is not abundant on the market, and would be freely taken at the lowest quoted rates. There is, however, a general disposition to husband funds a little more carefully, in order to meet any fixed requirement that may arise, when the grain harvest shall begin. This policy will insure ample funds to effect the desired object without producing any material or seriously felt closeness, a fact upon which the country is to be congratulated, and which will give an active trade during the autumn months, notwithstanding the probability that prices will be low.

The out-turn of the various mines in the United States during the past year, as shown by the coinage at the mints of Philadelphia and San Francisco, the two leading institutions of the kind in the country, was larger than ever before. The latter mint, however, took the lead, and probably turned out more coin in value during the year ending the 30th ult. than any other establishment ever did in the same length of time the total amount being upwards of thirty-five millions dollars. The amount coined at Philadelphia in the same time was over fifteen millions, showing an increase of six millions at the parent mint over the preceding year. The addition of fifty millions to the coin circulation of the country has, of course, been offset to a great degree by exportation, but still, it is claimed, that with the proper enforcement of a judicious financial policy on the part of the Government and the observance of a safe system in commercial circles, this important item of addition to her cash capital, and the revenues of the people from agricultural and manufacturing resources, ought soon to bring about an era of monetary ease not unsurpassed or even equaled, by any other country in the world

One of the speakers in the St. Louis convention in arguing for the repeal of the act of Congress for the resumption of specie payments, is reported to have said that the country is 20 per cent. further from the gold standard than it was two years ago, when the bill was passed. The Bulletin says very truly that either Mr. Voorhees does not know the meaning of the remark attributed to him, or he was entirely unconscious of the truth he was uttering. Two years ago currency could be had at par for the price of gold coin as measured by the gold standard, was 110 to 111, against an average of 112 for the current month. In other words, gold dollars were worth 8% or two cents, against 8% to day. If Mr. Voorhees can see 20 per cent. difference in these values, he must take exceptional views of the financial question from the rest of the world. It is hardly necessary to say that the country has never been so near to par as the gold standard since 1862 as it has been during the past two years. At no previous similar interval has the Pacific coast in gold been so trivial, having been only 8 per cent. for the entire period, and much of this steadiness may be attributed to the official act of Congress to resume specie payments on the 1st of January, 1879. As we are on the threshhold of an exciting political campaign, when the financial question will be made a prominent feature, the above facts may be of service to those who desire correct information of this kind.

Grain Reports.

The latest advices from the interior of this State indicate that the wheat surplus the coming harvest will be about as large as last year with the usual chances for fair weather from now until the crop is saved. This will give about 125,000 tons for export, though some good judges claim that the quantity will be 30,000 to 15,000 tons larger, including the Walla Walla valley in W. T. There is believed now to be 8,000 tons of the old crop on hand, of which but very little will be shipped before the new is harvested. This would give a total for export in Oregon next year of 135,000 or 140,000 tons.

In California the system adopted by the Produce Exchange of San Francisco of obtaining definite reports of the amount of grain and flour in the State at the end of each quarter has been found to work satisfactorily. The report for the quarter ending July 1st, is published. It is thought the returns for wheat comprise all the old stock left in the State, but the same confidence is not felt in the returns of feed grain. The quantity of flour on hand is given at 15,500 bbls including 8,000 in San Francisco and aboard vessels in the harbor, and the balance principally in the northern counties. The stock of old wheat reported is only 6,700 of which nearly half is held by farmers in the San Joaquin valley. The stock of oats is given at 4 400 centals, all in the city. The quantity of corn is reported at 34,700 centals, of which 28,600 centals is still at the place of growth in the southern counties, and the balance here. The quantity of grain carried over into the new crop year has rarely been so small as this season.

The new crop of California is estimated at 700,000 tons, bringing the total for export from the Pacific coast up to nearly 900,000 tons, or about thirty million bushels an increase of six million bushels over any former year.

BAY VIEW HOUSE,

BAKER'S BAY, CNTY, W. T.

MR. DEXTER INFORMS THE PUBLIC that his House is now open for the reception of guests. Its advantages in every respect over any other Summer Resort are too well known to Oregonians to repeat here. To strangers I will say that the place is in plain sight and across the Bay from Astoria on the sheltered side of Cape Hancock, and very near and adjacent to the Fort and Lighthouse, on Baker's Bay, a beautiful sheet of water, unequaled for Sailing, Rowing, Fishing and Bathing. The dark forest with its picturesque drives, its mountain springs, profusion of wild berries, wild flowers and ferns, the home trail to the Cape for Equestrians or walkers is one of the most delightful Panoramas to the eye ever witnessed. The ocean beaches its cares luxuriantly wooded Island, its views of Astoria, Chinook, Fort Stevens, moist old Tillamook, in the blue distance

The conditions hospitality of the officers of the Garrison at the Fort, and also of Mr. Munson and family, of the Lighthouse, make that place well worthy of a visit

The Salt Water Bathing in the bay, within a few feet of the Hotel, excels anything far or near, for warmth of the water and mildness of its waves, far preferable to the heavy surf and cold winds for women, children and invalids, while the stout swimmer or those who love the foaming surf, in a few minutes walk will find a beach unsurpassed in beauty, hard and level for one continuous drive of thirty miles. At this end are huge rocks stretching out into the ocean, from which fishers take from the Rock Perch, Flounders, Cod, Sturgeon, etc. etc. Crabs, Clams Oysters, &c., in abundance, and the table will never lack a sufficiency of those desirable adjuncts. Boats upon the Bay, Saddle Ponies for the children, Teams to the Weather Beach, Croquet Swings, Quoits, etc., FREE to Guests.

Prices reduced from the old tariff.

The horse will find this a good place to put out, wood and water and use of ground free. Groceries, provisions, milk eggs, butter, etc. for sale at a small profit. Campers can board at the Hotel if they prefer at fair rates. A large Livery Stable, two new and fine Ten Pin Alleys attached to the place.

Stage Office to Oysterville, Dustoffice, Wells Fargo & Co.'s office also there. No raw winds or damp fogs and more beautiful tracks and shady groves cannot be found. The only regret the Landlord has is that his house is not larger, but his grounds are large enough and beautiful enough to warrant next season a Hotel worthy of the surroundings.

C. H. DEXTER, Proprietor.

Construction of Life Boat Station Houses.

SEALED PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED AT this Department until 12 o'clock, noon, of Monday, the 31st day of July, 1876, for the construction of Life Boat, Station Houses at the following named points on the Pacific Coast, to wit: One at Neah Bay, one at Shoalwater Bay and one at Cape Arago, in Coos Bay, Oregon, and one at Humboldt Bay, California.

Bids will be received for one, several or all of the above mentioned houses, and bidders must state the number they will build and designate the location

Each bid must be accompanied with a bond in the sum of one thousand dollars with two good and sufficient sureties conditioned that the bidder shall enter into contract without delay, if his bid be accepted

All proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for the construction of Life Boat Station Houses" and addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury, Washington D. C.

Specifications, plans and forms of proposal and bond can be obtained at the offices of the Collectors of Customs at San Francisco, Astoria, Portland, Puget Sound, and Port Townsend, also upon application to this Department

The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive defects if in his judgment the interest of the Government so to do is best served.
